COHRED's print and electronic materials comprise a broad range of discussion papers, policy reports, manuals and tools. They cover a variety of topics related to health research for development, including equity, priority setting, capacity strengthening, ethics and financing. To contribute to the dissemination of country experiences with health research for development, documents produced by partners and other institutions are also available. For instance, the country reports provide informative case studies and lessons learnt during the stages of the process of developing a health research system. To find the documents that you are looking for, you can: 1. Use the 'search' (top right of the page) 2. Browse by Topic, Document Type, Country or Region 3. Look through the A-Z document catalogue for a full listing As not all of our documents are available online, please use the order form (order publication) if you wish to receive a paper copy. In our effort to facilitate the dissemination of knowledge and experience in health research for development, we are gathering publications. If you have a publication, article, manual, press release, etc, on topics related to health research for development, please contact us through the 'order publication' form.
